QUALIFICATIONS

I have been teaching and developing college-level courses, both in-person and online, for nearly two decades, mentored a number of regionally and nationally recognized theatre designers and technicians and have dynamically managed an academic costume shop where students are trained in draping, patterning, cutting, construction, craftwork and hair. In addition to my tenure as an educator, I am an accomplished costume, mask, puppet, makeup and themed entertainment designer/fabricator, have produced original works, apprenticed a number of individuals thus introducing them into the professional theatre/entertainment communities and am the founder of Scared of my Shadow, a company specializing in art masks and concept driven costuming. I have also conducted numerous workshops in FX makeup, puppetry and state-of-the-industry topics. My fine art training has highly influenced my sculptural approach to design and fabrication and is at the heart of my “maker” style of teaching and producing. My experience in 3D modeling, printing and laser cutting applications has further allowed me to fold evolving technologies into my more traditional design practices and academic pursuits.
